

'Jurassic World' is now the Undisputed King of the Box Office

Move over, Marvel! Jurassic World is now the largest box office opener of all time, bringing in almost $208.8 Million in the United States, and a whopping $524.4 Million globally. A box office record like this one could take a considerable amount of time to break, perhaps until something like Jurassic park exist! (kidding obviously.) Although he did not direct this one, Steven Spielberg is used to being involved with successful movies, creating some of the most well known movies of all time. He let Colin Trevorrow direct this one and helped contribute to the movie as a producer. The success of this movie might be a bit new for the star of the film, Chris Pratt, who previously stared on the hit NBC series Parks and Recreation, which just had its final season this year.

What made this box office opening so successful? It could be partly because Jurassic World is the long awaited reboot/sequel to the ever-so-loved Jurassic Park movies. People have truly been expecting this for a long time, but that can't only be the reason this movie was so successful, could it? Sure, this is a long awaited reboot of the popular franchise, so we can be sure there could quite possibly be more movies coming. Since Steven Spielberg he did not direct the film, we are somewhat unsure of what his exact role was. Chris Pratt has been doing most of the late night talk show appearances for the movie. Apart from the premiere, Spielberg has been somewhat quiet. Surely something has to be going on. Either way, there have to be several more factors that contributed to this box office success.

Could this box office success be the work of Spielberg? He certainly has the experience creating high grossing movies, and it is possible his work as a producer for the movie was a major player in the box office success. Or could it be just his name? We will have to wait and see. For now, we can be sure of one thing; Chris Pratt certainly is a huge star. Many critics have been harsh on the decision to cast prat as the lead in this film, but the numbers don't lie. The box office success of this movie proves that Pratt is a much bigger star than others give him credit for.

What is next for Spielberg or Pratt? Chris Pratt talked about the positive relationship they had together on set. Pratt hinted on the Jimmy Kimmel live show that he could continue to do movies with Steven Spielberg and could quite possibly be the next Indiana Jones. Jimmy Kimmel through out the comment, As Chris Pratt joking went along. You could see a slightly embarrassed Pratt carefully contemplating what to say next. He later said that he had no answer to the question but “missed a phone call the other day” and looked in the camera and said “That could have been [Spielberg].” It is quite possible that Spielberg could reboot the Indiana Jones series and cast Pratt as the lead. Now that would be exciting!

It sure has been an amazing year for Chris Pratt, coming off of a popular television series and becoming the star of the highest grossing box office hit of all time. He was also the star of “Guardians of the Galaxy” which also did surprisingly well. Whatever the future holds, we can be sure that this could quite possibly be only the beginning of what Pratt has coming. He could be the new face
